

The 71st North American Meetings of the Regional Science Association International

Hosted by the North American Regional Science Council

November 14-16, 2024
New Orleans, Louisiana

Welcome to New Orleans!

On behalf of the North American Regional Science Council (NARSC), we are delighted to welcome you to New Orleans, Louisiana, for the 71st Annual North American Meetings of the Regional Science Association International, taking place from November 13-16, 2024. We are excited to gather in one of the nation's most historic and culturally vibrant cities for a dynamic and intellectually stimulating program.

This year's conference features 93 sessions, offering a rich combination of methodologies that have made regional science so engaging and relevant. From econometrics and spatial econometrics to gravity models of trade, spatial optimization techniques, interregional input-output models, and spatial general equilibrium models, the 2024 program is designed to explore both long-standing tools and innovative approaches in our field.

The conference program will feature two exciting plenary talks on environmental economics. On Wednesday evening, from 7:00 pm–8:00 pm, Amit Batabyal will present "Decentralized vs. Centralized Water Pollution Cleanup in the Ganges in a Model with Three Cities." On Thursday evening, from 6:00 pm–7:15 pm, our NARSC 2024 President, Sandy Dall'erba, will deliver a thought-provoking talk titled "How can Regional Scientists keep contributing to climate and environmental economics?"

This year's program also highlights a growing focus on sustainability issues, with special sessions addressing topics such as climate change, environmental footprints, climate-smart technologies, and the impact of natural disasters on migration, economic development, trade flows, property values, and critical infrastructure. Additionally, we are pleased to offer many special sessions dedicated to Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI), the NARSC student paper competition, the Regional Science Academy, Regional Economic Effects of Disasters, Spatial econometric methods and applications, Outreach in Regional Science, Regional/Rural Development, Location and Spatial Analysis, Tiebout Centenary, and Smart specialization for sustainability.

Receptions will take place on both Wednesday and Thursday evenings, providing a perfect opportunity to connect with colleagues. In a change from previous years, the award luncheon will be held on Friday, where we will celebrate the achievements of our peers.

While you're here, we encourage you to explore the incredible city of New Orleans, known for its rich blend of cultures, vibrant music scene, and world-class cuisine. The conference venue, the New Orleans Marriott, is conveniently located near the historic French Quarter and just a few blocks from the Mississippi River. You'll be within walking distance of some of the country's best restaurants, bars, and live music. Whether you're looking to explore Jackson Square and St. Louis Cathedral, immerse yourself in history at the National World War II Museum and the Historic New Orleans Collection, or experience the lively atmospheres of Bourbon Street, Frenchmen Street, and Preservation Hall, there's no shortage of experiences to enjoy. For those seeking a quieter pace, consider visiting the Audubon Aquarium of the Americas, taking a steamboat ride on the Natchez, or exploring the Garden District's stunning architecture. And for the brave, New Orleans, often called the City of Ghosts and Vampires, offers haunted tours that add a spooky thrill to your visit.

In addition to immersing yourself in the city's vibrant offerings, we hope you enjoy the conference's many exciting paper presentations, reconnect with colleagues, and create new opportunities for collaboration.

We would like to extend our sincere thanks to John Spring, our NARSC Executive Director, for his impeccable coordination of the conference, and to Taejun Mo, Hyungsun Yim, and Sandy Dall'erba, our Program Chair team, for their exceptional work in organizing this year's event.

We look forward to seeing you at the 71st NARSC 2024 conference and hope you enjoy both the stimulating sessions and your time in New Orleans!

Ting Zhang
NARSC Council Chair, on behalf of the NARSC Council

Instructions to NARSC Session Participants

- Please stick to the printed program schedule. Each session has a specific time slot assigned to presentations. If there is a no-show, use the time to discuss previous papers or take a break. Do not rearrange papers to fill gaps in the schedule, as attendees may have specific interests in particular papers.
- Each breakout room will be equipped with a projector. The Session Chair is responsible for bringing laptop computers for use by all session presenters. If you are a Session Chair and unable to bring a laptop, kindly communicate with other session participants to ensure that someone in the session brings a laptop. Please note that NARSC will not provide laptops for use in individual sessions.
- NARSC will have adapters for Apple products at the registration desk, but you must bring your projector adapter.
- Presenters should save presentations in both PowerPoint and PDF formats. Emailing a copy to themselves ensures a backup.
- Most sessions have 4 papers. Each paper should be given 30 minutes in total (20-minute presentation, 5-minute discussion, and 5-minute Q&As). If your session has 3 or 5 papers, make sure to distribute the time accordingly.
- Hold everyone to the time allotted. If a speaker continues after time has expired, rise, ask those present to join you in thanking the speaker, and announce the next presentation. The audience and other speakers will support your decision.
- Please be considerate of the next session by ensuring your session is completed at the appropriate time, and the meeting room is vacated in time for the next session.
- Each paper is assigned a discussant to review and offer constructive comments on the paper. There is one discussant for each paper. The discussants for each session are listed in the program in sequential order. The first discussant listed is responsible for discussing the first paper presented; the second discussant listed is responsible for discussing the second paper presented, etc. Some sessions may have allocated their discussants differently.
- The discussant should come prepared to provide approximately 5 minutes of discussion of the paper. Possible speaking points include its merits and questions' regarding methods, data, or findings – a summary of the paper is neither expected nor appropriate. As a presenter, we ask that you share your paper (or slides) with your discussant as early as possible so that the discussant has sufficient time to review it.

The REMI model is the premier software solution for modelling the economic and demographic effects of policy changes. Decision-makers and analysts rely on the REMI model to validate their economic impact studies in areas such as energy and utilities, economic development, transportation, and taxation.

Regional Economic Models, Inc. (REMI) was founded in 1980 on a transformative idea: government decision-makers should test the economic effects of their policies before they're implemented. Our clients use REMI models to perform rigorous economic analysis that critically influences local, state and national policies.

CREATE

UIUC's Center for Climate, Regional, Environmental And Trade Economics

CREATE (Climate, Regional, Environmental, and Trade Economics) is a research center founded by Prof. Sandy Dall'erba (University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign) in 2021.

CREATE is devoted to the study of climate change and environmental accounts based on system-wide techniques developed in regional economics and trade economics. The Center was formed with the recognition that climate change continues to have increasingly visible impacts on our society, and that anticipating and mitigating these impacts requires approaches that incorporate research agendas and expertise from multiple fields.

Central to this effort is the consideration of the spatial, supply-chain and economic relationships that link regions and countries with one another, relationships which ensure that even local events might have global ramifications. The mission of CREATE is therefore to offer place-tailored impact measurements for the design of relevant adaptation and mitigation strategies, to foster system-based research in regional, environmental, and trade economics, and to provide a venue for researchers to share knowledge, findings, and resources.

More information is available here: <https://create.ace.illinois.edu/>

The Regional Research Institute (RRI) at West Virginia University is an internationally recognized center for the advancement of regional science. For more than five decades, the RRI has conducted and promoted interdisciplinary research on social and economic issues that are best addressed at the regional level. We are focused on building partnerships to support research that advances regional development policy and helps to foster economic growth and support workforce and community development at the regional level.
